Ohio child-care assistance | 2007 review

Fourth sheet | November 10, 2026. Conditional legal analysis, not an agency or court finding.

Allegation and potential offenses, if proved

Allegation to investigate: Knowingly false income or payroll information was used to obtain publicly funded child-care assistance. This is an allegation, not an established finding.

Falsification - R.C. 2921.13(A)(4): If Anna knowingly submitted a false pay stub or other false statement with the purpose of obtaining government benefits, the conduct could constitute falsification. [8]

Theft by deception - R.C. 2913.02(A)(3): If she knowingly obtained benefits or services by that deception, with purpose to deprive the owner, the conduct could constitute theft by deception. Whether benefits were actually unentitled, obtained and paid must be established; neither a budget figure nor a wage difference establishes the loss. [9]

Child-care fraud - OAC 5101:2-16-71(L), effective February 1, 2007: Willful withholding, falsification or misuse, intent to deceive or defraud, and resulting services or payment not entitled to could meet this rule's fraud definition, as determined by a court. The same rule required accurate, complete, timely eligibility information and distinguished errors from intentional misconduct. [7]

Records to compare and the timing that matters

Assistance notice: Application July 23, 2007; notice August 23, 2007; $1,505 budget. The visible notice does not identify the budget period or itemize its calculation. It does not show $1,505 paid as cash assistance.

2007 city tax return: Prepared January 26, 2008; $35,245 annual wages, averaging $2,937.08 per month. The annual average alone does not establish July eligibility income.

Pay stub 3 (shirm).xls, Sheet2: Anna C Catudal; Schirm Farms Realty, LLC; period November 23-December 6, 2007, paid December 14, 2007. It lists 40 hours at $9.50, $380 gross, $283.12 net and $11,965.25 year-to-date gross. This formula-driven workbook has not been independently authenticated as an employer-issued record. It postdates the July application and August notice; it cannot, by itself, show what was submitted then. $380 x 2.15 = $817 monthly only if that biweekly pay is representative.

Eligibility rules and unresolved facts

2007 standard: Initial-entry income limit was 185% FPL, not 200%. Family composition mattered; care had to relate to work, education or training. Eligibility changes, including income/work/household changes, had to be reported within 10 calendar days. [1-4] Gross income was evaluated with specified exclusions; weekly pay x 4.3, biweekly x 2.15, semimonthly x 2. Fluctuating wages normally used the preceding four weeks or a representative estimate, not automatically annual wages / 12. [5]

What an investigator must establish: Was this workbook or a false income statement actually submitted to JFS? Were its figures false, and did Anna know that? What were the actual household, eligible-period earnings, exclusions and changes? Did the alleged deception obtain unentitled benefits, and what was paid? Obtain the signed application, JFS 01139/budget worksheet, original employer payroll, submission/change records and provider payment history. The three records do not yet establish these elements. No perjury or felony grade is concluded here.

Annual counts and maximum custody under the historical law

No fixed annual count or combined maximum can be calculated here. Months or payments do not automatically equal separate crimes. Former R.C. 2913.61(C)(1) treated a theft series in the same capacity or relationship as one offense, using combined value. Separate knowingly false submissions require evidence; the child-care fraud rule is not an additional criminal count. [10]

Ordinary falsification: first-degree misdemeanor (M1), maximum 180 days in jail. Ordinary theft ceilings depended on proven stolen value: under $500: M1/180 days; $500-under $5,000: F5/12 months; $5,000-under $100,000: F4/18 months; $100,000-under $500,000: F3/5 years; $500,000-under $1 million: F2/8 years; $1 million or more: F1/10 years. These are per-offense statutory ceilings, not this case's exposure or a sentencing prediction. These cannot simply be added; merger and consecutive-sentence rules are fact-specific. Present-day prosecution/limitations are not assessed. No stolen-benefit amount or annual offense count is established; $1,505 budget and a wage discrepancy are not proven loss. [8-9, 11-12]

CONCLUSION

Defendant has been allowed to lie to the Franklin County Domestic Relations Court about the events that transpired on August 5, 2012 with regard to Haley A. Catudal being abused and/or neglected.

Plaintiff needs the information herein to prove welfare fraud to a law enforcement agency. The law enforcement agency is the Franklin County Domestic Relations Court. Defendant's commission of welfare fraud needs to be taken into account with the re-designation of Residential and Custodial Parentage of Haley A. Catudal.
